The ENGE Lounge a space for first-year engineering students to receive help and guidance on a variety of topics.

The lounge is staffed by undergraduate teaching assistants (UTA’s) that represent a diverse group of engineering fields and interests. The UTA’s are available to help you make sense of your first year of engineering and provide you with a solid foundation for success in the years to come.

No question is too small for the UTA’s…they are there to share their experiences and enhance yours. Possible topics are:

– how to do homework
– tips and tricks for giving presentations and writing papers
– information about the experiences in different engineering majors
– advice of which classes to choose

ENGE Lounge Hours (Spring 2016):
